

About Us

Enertech Electronics Pvt. Ltd. has been involved in the activity of manufacturing power electronic products since 1988. The company's core competency in power electronics is blended with excellent engineering in other fields, enabling us in achieving a pioneering status in our product lines. Our customers are in all areas of Pharmaceuticals, Bio-technology, Chemical, Automation, Industrial activity like machine tools, control equipments, continuous process industries, automobile and automobile part manufacturers and in the medical fraternity pertaining to hospitals and specialist doctors.

We Offer Complete Line Of Products :

- Computerised Formulation Makers
- XYZ Precision Positioning Systems
- Robotic Liquid Dispensing Systems
- Benchtop Liquid Dispensing Systems
- Automated Syringe Pumps
- High Voltage DC Power Supplies
- Peristaltic Pumps
- Ultrasonic Cleaning Equipments
- Hi-Life (The Tool Life Enhancer)
- Instrumentation Devices and Meters

We have received President's of India award 1st-prize under the heading of manufacturing technology and systems for a high power converter in 1990. Our company is the pioneer and the only manufacturer of metal stress relieving machines - our Hi-Life series, based on application of electromagnetic waves in India.

Our actual strength lies in a dedicated trained and talented work force enabling us in attempting and achieving more and more difficult targets with complete customer satisfaction. The company provides very substantial training throughout the career of the employees with programs for professional and personal development.

Innovative Design From Customer Feedback

To maintain awareness of the ever changing requirements of the markets our sales representatives and distributors stay in contact with leading researchers. This network of sales representatives receives extensive training in the operation and application of our product offerings.

We strive to be the leader in our market segments through ongoing improvement of current offerings and creative solutions to customers emerging needs. Our multi-functional Project Teams have a remarkable in house knowledge base including expertise in mechanics, power electronics, optics, fluidics, software and engineering . Today's new product innovations are the result of our marketing, sales and research and development staff listening to the needs of our customers. We have the In house experts, that are capable of identifying and resolving complex cross-functional, interrelated design problems through participation in a wide range of industry associations, conferences, and customer surveys. We pay careful attention to trends in developing technology and new applications to provide a fresh perspective, when contemplating new products or current products enhancements.

We Demand Customer Satisfaction

Our Service department is involved early in the life cycle of all new projects to ensure the serviceability of our products from release to maturity. Should you encounter any issues with your product, Enertech provides instantaneous Technical Assistance to answer your product and application questions. Enertech is pride in fostering good customer relationships is evident in the dedication of these employees.

Enertech's Quality Commitment

Today research and development personnel must meet increasing regulatory pressures, higher quality assurance standards, and rapid technological growth, while performing their work faster and more efficiently than ever. Enertech stands behind you ready to provide a full range of quality products and services to meet today's and tomorrow's challenges.